Howard McBurney Died at Calgary on Sunday

Had Been in Ill Health for Past Year; Funeral Held on Tuesday; Number of Colmanites Present

A wave of sincere regret swept throughout the town on Sunday afternoon when news of the death of Howard McCormack McBurney, 60, became known. An esteemed and valuable citizen here for 31 years, he suffered an illness last August and never fully recovered. On April 23 he and Mrs. McBurney left Coleman for their new home at Calgary.

Born at Stratford, Ont., he went to Calgary in 1907, later moving to Diamond city where he opened a drug store. He also operated a second drug store at Coalhurst. In 1913 he came to Coleman where he owned and operated the McBurney Drug store. During his 31 years residence here he and Mrs. McBurney became very popular.

"Mac" was an energetic community builder and did considerable to make life more pleasurable in Coleman. He was a staunch Liberal supporter in the world of politics and was greatly interested in sports. He was a member for four years as unit organizer for the local War Finance Committee in the Victory Loans, and many years ago served on the council.

Funeral service, conducted by Rev. C. A. Lawson, was held on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from Leyden's chapel. Burial was made in Burnside cemetery.

Among the pallbearers were Tom Flynn and Frank Abousafy.

Attending the funeral from Coleman and Blairmore were Mr. and Mrs. W. Dutil, Mr. and Mrs. F. Abousafy and Louise, Mrs. W. L. Rippon, Mrs. T. B. Smith, Mrs. J. J. McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. T. Flynn, J. R. Kerr, R. R. Pattinson, J. H. Boulton, S. Safford, G. Steeves, S. J. Lamey and R. Davidson.

$193.50 Savings Stamps Sold On Friday

The grand sum of $193.50 was sold by Miss Canadas and the local stores on Friday, June 30, which was also "S" Day throughout the province.

Of the above amount, $88.50 was sold at the bank and on the street.

GEORGE ALDOFF TO COMPETE AT CALGARY

Coleman district will be represented at Calgary Exhibition and Stampede from July 10 to 15 this year by George Aldoff. George has entered the Canadian bucking horse championship riding event, and will also compete in the wild steer decorating event.

Plans for the big show at Calgary have been completed and officials say there is every indication of a record breaking year provided the weather man co-operates.

STUDENTS NON-COMMITTAL ON JULY SCHOOL DAYS

Coleman school students are not saying very much about having to attend school during the first fifteen days of July, the first time they have ever been asked to do this. Possibly one reason for this is that the really hot weather has not yet been experienced and the school classes are still fairly cool throughout the day. Another is the fact that two and a half months holiday is in sight.

One high school student remarked that he only wished school would close still later as it would give him a little more time to study.

It is noticed that some complaints have been registered in Calgary regarding July school days.

NEW CONCRETE SIDEWALK LAID

Work on the laying of the new concrete sidewalk from Zak's to the Community hall was completed on Tuesday afternoon. A good job well done.

On Wednesday morning the portion in front of Janostak's Grocery was torn up and concrete will be poured there.

Miss Dorothy Carruthers Won Chesterfield Suite

Miss Dorothy Carruthers, of Coleman, was the lucky winner of the handsome $225 Chesterfield raffled by Coleman Curling club at the sports ground on Saturday afternoon. She held the winning ticket No. 265.

Miss Carruthers bought her ticket, the only one, from Ronnie Lloyd during the first days of the ticket sale and then promptly forgot all about the purchase. Coming home Sunday evening after visiting her parents at Macleod she was informed in the bus at Bellevue that she was the lucky winner of the beautiful Chesterfield. She plans on keeping it.

The draw was made at 5 p.m. Saturday with Art Fraser, president of Coleman Community Sports Association presiding. Helen Staruko picked the winning stub.

The curling club executive takes this opportunity of thanking the general public for their fine support in purchasing tickets on the draw. The proceeds will be devoted toward the construction of the new curling arena.

AIR VICE-MARSHAL G. R. HOWSAM INSPECTS CADETS

Air Vice-Marshal G. R. Howsam, M.C., air officer commanding No. 4 Training Command, is shown speaking to Air Cadet Donald McDonald, of Hillcrest, at the recent inspection of the local air cadet squadron. Flying Officer Harold Houghton, commanding officer of No. 73 squadron, accompanied the inspecting officer, Air Cadet Trevor McDonald is also shown in the picture.

The Air Vice-Marshal spoke to each of the boys in turn. He encouraged them to continue their studies in school and also take part in out-door activities in order to develop strong healthy bodies. He expressed pleasure in the fact that the boys were members of the Air Cadets of Canada and stated the training they received would enable them to share in the future development of Canada and to defend our country if they were needed.

Elks' Two Day Carnival to be Held Saturday And Monday, July 15 And 17

Six Good Major Prizes; Games of Skill And Chance For Young And Old; Elks Busy Building Booths

All is hustle and bustle among the Elks this week as they prepare for their annual carnival at the arena on Saturday and Monday, July 15 and 17.

This year it will be a case of "share the wealth" as no less than six major prizes will be won by some lucky persons, three being drawn each evening.

There will be many booths with worthwhile prizes as well as various booths where one can try their skill or luck. The ever popular bingo booth will have various worthwhile prizes.

A jittney dance with a good orchestra will take care of Pass dance lovers.

Proceeds will be devoted to Elks community charities.

Mayor Enoch Williams of Blairmore Mentioned As Labor Nominee In Pass

BLAIRMORE—Provincial politics are beginning to simmer in the Crows Nest Pass. At a recent meeting of the Blairmore miners the political situation was discussed to some considerable extent, the outcome of which was the decision to put a strong labor man in the field to contest the Rocky Mountain - Pincher Creek riding.

The name of Enoch Williams was suggested as the candidate for Labor as he would receive considerable support from all classes of labor in the Pass.

A large Labor meeting has been called to be held in Blairmore on Sunday, July 9. Invitations have been forwarded to all localities in the constituency to have delegates attend this meeting to put forward names as likely nominees.

A large delegation of farmers is expected to attend the meeting from the prairie portion of the riding and with a representative meeting of all classes of labor attending this meeting a Labor candidate will emerge from the meeting with Farmer-Labor support, it is believed.

Enoch Williams, who has been mayor of Blairmore for around ten years and financial secretary of the Blairmore Miners' union for several years, and who has taken considerable interest in community affairs, will have considerable strength at the meeting and it's even money that he will be the meeting's choice to contest the riding in the interests of Labor.

He ran on the Labor ticket in the provincial election of 1940 but was defeated by the present sitting member, E. O. Duke, Social Credit, in a three-way contest between Labor, Independents and Social Credit.

"THE GANG'S ALL HERE" HAILED AS MUSICAL TOPS

Now we know why they shout "Hail, Hail," before "The Gang's All Here."

For that's just how the critics the country over are acclaiming 20th Century-Fox's great, new musical triumph scheduled to open Saturday at the Palace Theatre.

And when they say "The Gang's All Here," they mean just that, for the picture boasts a dazzling galaxy of the brightest stars in musical history, headed by Alice Faye, Carmen Miranda, radio's 364 question man, Phil Baker, and Benny Goodman and his famous orchestra, with a brilliant supporting cast of topnotchers including Eugene Pallette, Charlotte Greenwood, Edward Everett Horton and Tony De Marco, as well as James Ellison, Sheila Ryan and Dave Willock.

All in all "The Gang's All Here" adds up to the most lavishly lovely, tunefully terrific, mirthfully marvellous and girlfully glorious musical of the year, what with Alice singing love songs as only she can sing them, Carmen as delightfully delicious as ever, Phil Baker "knocking them in the aisles" with his high hilarity, and the king of swing beating out the solid-sending rhythms that have made him America's No. 1 band leader.

LEGION PICNIC AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

Legion members, their wives and families, and relatives of servicemen overseas, gathered at the sports ground on Sunday afternoon and had a most enjoyable picnic. Even the heavy shower in late afternoon failed to halt the sports program.

Soft drinks and oranges were distributed freely to all. Softball and horseshoe pitching were the favorite sports. A few races were run for the little tots, who were all given a nickel each.

FO. Bill Naylor Wins D.F.C.

Had Previously Been Cited for Gallantry and Leadership in Action; Coleman now has Three D.F.C.'s

It was with much pleasure last week that Bill Naylor's many friends heard that he had won the Distinguished Flying Cross as an award for his gallantry and leadership in bombing trips over Europe. A few months ago he had been cited for gallantry and leadership while in action. His citation in winning the D.F.C. has not yet been released.

In March he had completed thirty bombing trips over Europe and had been given furlough. Later he was assigned as an instructor in navigation and was still working at this assignment according to recent letters. To those who read the Cigarette Fund Notes column it is always noted that Bill is always having things "pretty soft". While his assignments may be pretty soft to Bill his superior officer must think he is doing a grand job.

This is the third young airman to win the D.F.C. for Coleman. Foss Boulton and Calvin Godfrey having previously won the honor.

Progress Being Made at Curling Arena

Concrete Base Has Been Laid; Men Now Cutting Timber For Uprights And The Roof.

Two weeks ago a gang of curlers turned out to pour concrete for the foundation of the new curling arena. Aided by Excel Builders concrete mixer the workers soon had the concrete poured. Thanks is extended to Mr. J. A. D'Appolonia for his co-operation in loaning the mixer as it was of great help.

International company is adding its help by loaning a dump cart and horse to aid in leveling the site. McGillivray Creek has also come to bat by cutting a number of timbers hauled from the forest. The timbers are being both cut and dressed and saves many valuable hours of painstaking labor. The curlers are deeply grateful to the two companies for their most appreciated aid.

Last Sunday nine men were out in the forest cutting timber. Due to a hail and rain storm work was held up after only a few hours. It has now necessitated another trip into the forest and this will be made next Sunday morning. Men wishing to help cut timber are asked to stand in front of the Motordrome on Sunday morning at 9. Cars will take them to the timber area. They are advised to take a bucket and bring along a saw.

July 1st Sports Day Enjoyed By Kiddies

Attendance Not as Large as Last Year, Youngsters Given Full Day's Enjoyment With Races and Refreshments

Several hundred youngsters gathered at the Central school grounds shortly after 9 a.m. Saturday to take part in the parade which was to open the July 1 sports day. Led by the Air Cadet bugle band they marched through the main street and then to the sports field. Each youngster was given a ticket for refreshments and they refreshed themselves before starting in on the races.

The Weatherman threatened rain but held off and the program was run off smoothly. There were sports for youngsters 6 years of age right up to the adults. Horseshoe and softball tournaments were held and attracted good gatherings.

The attendance was down considerably to that of last year, many attending attractions farther afield. However a most enjoyable day was had by those who attended and the committee in charge is to be commended on their efficiency in running off so large a program so smoothly.

Former Coleman Doctor Gravely Injured at Coast

Wife Killed in Car Crash; Were in Coleman from 1919 to 1923; Had Practiced at Kimberley.

DUNCAN, B.C.—Two persons are dead and two critically injured following an automobile collision 12 miles south of her Saturday night.

Dead are Arthur Overholt of Victoria and Mrs. D. W. Davis, of Kimberley. Dr. D. W. Davis, husband of the dead woman, suffered critical injuries and hospital authorities said he was expected to live.

Seto Sun Ho of Victoria suffered fractured vertebrae. Louis Hodgins and Jack Hamilton, both of Victoria, suffered shock and bruises.

The accident occurred when a car police said was driven by Hodgins collided with the Davis' car, caving in one side of the latter vehicle and crumpling the wheel of the Hodgins' automobile.

Mr. Overholt's widow resides in Lethbridge, Alta.

Editor's Note: Dr. and Mrs. Davis resided here from 1919 to the spring of 1923. Dr. Davis was in partnership with Dr. Scott and they had their surgery in the home next to The Journal office. Dr. and Mrs. Davis resided in the home now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Abousafy when it was located on the site of what is now part of Central school yard.

They have been residing at Kimberley where Dr. Scott had a practice. They have two sons, one a doctor and the other thought to be overseas. Last year they stopped off at Coleman on a trip through the Pass and visited Mr. W. L. Rippon.

NATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

The establishing of three new departments of government - Social Welfare, Veterans' Affairs, and Reconstruction - was recently announced to Parliament by the Prime Minister. The Department of Reconstruction, as its name implies, will advance and co-ordinate the broad program designed to meet post-war needs. The proposed Department of Social Welfare will be responsible for the administration of insurance measures and those functions in the field of public health which are under the Health Branch of the Department of Pensions and National Health. The work of the Pensions Branch will be assumed by the new Department of Veterans' Affairs. The Department of Pensions and National Health will cease to exist. Hospitalization of returned soldiers, which forms such an important part of the program of the Department of Pensions and National Health, will be a responsibility of the Department of Veterans' Affairs. There will therefore be a separation of hospitalization, which is essentially a health matter, from the department charged largely with the responsibility for health, since the work of the Health Branch of the Department of Pensions and National Health will presumably be administered by the Department of Social Welfare.

It is most disappointing that, if the proposed measures are adopted, Canada will no longer have a national health department, even though the health services may be included in the broad designation "social welfare". This reorganization raises the whole question of the status of public-health services in the Federal Government. When the Department of National Health was established in 1919, following more than forty years of effort by leaders of all parties, there was widespread approval of centralizing public-health work in one department which would be represented in the Cabinet by the Minister of Health. In June, 1928, however, when the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment ceased to function, the administration of veterans' affairs was transferred to the Department of National Health, which thereafter was known as the Department of Pensions and National Health. At that time public-health leaders felt concerned lest the magnitude of the responsibilities of pensions might so overshadow those of national health that progress in health work would be retarded. And although much has been accomplished, the disparity between the budgets of the two divisions has been striking, even taking into account the much larger appropriations necessarily required by the Pensions Branch. Today, sixteen years after the amalgamation of the two departments, the budget for pensions is approximately fifty times that for national health.

Now, the progress of the past 25 years seems likely to be jeopardized as a result of the proposed reorganization. It is appreciated that the term "social welfare", in its full significance, implies due regard for health and that, without health, social welfare is impossible. Yet it seems most desirable that, since public health and medical services are fundamental to social security, the words "national health" be included in the title of the proposed Department of Social Welfare in order that there may be a public consciousness of its importance—a consciousness which is essential to the achieving of all that social welfare implies. The omission of "national health" from the name of this department is likely to constitute a serious handicap to the advancement of public health in the post-war years and it is earnestly hoped that it is not too late to permit of further consideration being given to this matter. — Canadian Journal of Public Health.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JULY 9

TAKING POSSESSION OF CANAAN

Golden text: "Thou hast wholly followed the Lord." Joshua 14:9. Lesson: Joshua, Chapters 13 and 14; Judges 1:19-21, 27, 36. Devotional Reading: Psalm 47.

Explanations and Comments

The Partition of Canaan, Joshua 14:1-5. The partition of Canaan among the tribes of Israel was made by lot, which was carried out by Eleazar, Joshua, and one representative from each of the tribes. It was one of the evidences that those Israelites were a chosen and inspired people that their plans reached out into a hoped-for but unrealized future, when they divided up great stretches of country still in the hands of their foes" (C. R. Brown).

Caleb's Special Claim, Joshua 14:6-15. Caleb is called the Kenizite, a name given the Edomite tribe in Gen. 15:19; but Caleb's younger brother, Othniel, who after Joshua became the first of the Judges, is called "the son of Kenaz," and it may have been from this name of Kenaz, a member of the tribe of Judah, that Caleb was called the Kenizite. At Gilead, Caleb, accompanied by his tribesmen, claimed his right to Hebron. He began by reminding Joshua of Moses' promise at Kadesh-Barnea. He was a man of forty years when he went with others to spy out the land of Canaan; and he had brought back a true report, "as it was in his heart," and he had wholly followed Jehovah. The other spies had discouraged the people, Caleb added; they had "caused the best of the people to melt," had made them too craven-hearted for the task before them. Moses had promised him that day that he and his children after him should have a special allotment of land because of his loyalty. All this had happened 45 years before this (40 years were spent in the wilderness, and five in the partial conquest of Canaan), and Caleb was now 85 years of age. He and Joshua were the only ones still living of all the host that had left Egypt.

Caleb's faith in the Lord was of itself invigorating and life-giving. It tended to longevity. The promise to Caleb that he should enter into the Promised Land while the scouts were doubted should not be allowed to pass over Jordan, was not an arbitrary promise. The man who can go scouting into the Promised Land and come back with a favorable report while his companions are in despair, is just the man who will come out of 45 years of hardship stronger than when he went in. The Lord has wrought faith in himself with a certain kind of spiritual nutriment which feeds even the bodies of men. This is the teaching enforced and re-enforced throughout all these chapters of Israel's history. It was the enforcement of this lesson which led to the writing of the books. The Israelites were in the days of the conquest fed from within. They did the will of the Lord, and their faith in him kept them strong." (Francis J. McConnell).

Joshua gave Caleb an official blessing before the rest of the tribe of Judah, and allotted him and his descendants the city of Hebron and its surrounding district.

Will Be Different

Many Improvements To Be Seen In Refrigerator Of Future

Expect the refrigerator of the future to be as different from current mechanical iceboxes as the present-day auto is from the original horseless carriage. Early mechanical refrigerators followed traditional icebox design—the freezing unit went into the top to permit the cold to flow downward. But the present open-front design permits cold air to cascade out whenever the door is opened; it allows no range in refrigeration temperature. Models now being designed would be of table height with top-opening compartments. Each section would have a temperature range for varied duty as a freezing compartment, for preserving meat, vegetables, or for other uses.—Newsweek.

Not Strong On Publicity

But British Can Be Depended On For Real Action

The Brockville Recorder and Times says: Not much is being heard or told on this side of the Atlantic of the heroism displayed by the men of famous British regiments in making their landings in Normandy and in the subsequent fighting. This is due to the fact that the British do not go in for our super-heated publicity. But we may be quite certain that, as in every other action since the start of the war, these men covered themselves with glory and also bore the main brunt of the fighting.

Dig For History

Council Of British Archaeology To Make A Survey

People of Britain are to be asked to dig for history. Thousands of amateur archaeologists, to act as observers, will be required if the Council of British Archaeology are able to carry out plans they are making for a nationwide survey after the war.

In a guide to be sent round to local authorities the Council tell observers some of the things they can look for wherever earth is disturbed. Here are some of them: Any foundations or floors (except, of course, those of modern buildings just destroyed by bombing). They may be only beaten earth, stained black with charcoal, or elaborate mosaics.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Light From Below

By VANCE C. CRISS

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The throng about the shaft house of the One Girl Mine tensed forward at the sound of the hoist. News from the depths where men fought to rescue fellow miners trapped by a cave in, their fate unknown.

Grizzled old Joe Blades, "brung up" in an Ozark mountain mine stepped from the bucket rim at the ground level. He shot a quick glance over the crowd, strode to Betty Knox, straining grimly at the barrier rope. "They're needin' you down there. Jeff got a bash on the head."

Betty stiffened. "If Jeff Logan thinks I'll run when he whistles, even if he—"

"Don't diffid whistle. Doc Carney wants somebody. Come on!"

Joe Blades turned back toward the shaft. Betty Knox fell in behind him. The grizzled miner grasped the cable, stepped on to the bucket rim. The girl followed suit, one foot each side of the bucket handle opposite Blades.

Betty's heart pounded as the hoist eased them down. Her first descent since that last quarrel with Jeff Logan! Her first meeting since then with the young owner who had named the One Girl Mine for her!

The bucket settled on the rock floor at the foot of the shaft. Betty stepped off, walked slowly toward Dr. Carney who was kneeling above Jeff Logan. Jeff saw her, turned his face to the wall. "I told Doc I didn't need any nursemaid," he mumbled. "I don't need your help."

"I know you don't," Betty fumed. "All you got is a knock on the head, and you're so everlasting mule-headed!"

"Yes, and you're so everlasting stubborn!"

"Please! Please!" Dr. Carney urged.

The young physician retained his professional poise with difficulty. A newcomer to the hills, he had fallen in love with Betty Knox, was determined to win her. Yet here she was with the man to whom she recently was engaged—the man who had just risked his life to rescue one of his workmen. And, in addition, a young couple who could forget danger to storm at each other, might not be so far apart as they thought.

"If the whole mine caved in on you," Betty snapped at Jeff Logan, "it wouldn't make a dent in your stubborn pride."

"Please! Please," Dr. Carney interrupted again. "Can't you remember we're—" he broke off to whisper to Joe Blades. "I told you not to bring Miss Knox down here. Haven't you any sense at all?"

"Reckon I'm 'bout the only one down here that has sense," the old miner drawled. "Betty stay in your own drawl, Doc, or—"

He broke off as little Willie Harris staggered toward them. "No use trying, through that faller rock any more," Harris said. "Too risky. We'll have to wait for the crew to blast to 'em from the No. 3 drift."

"I'll take a fling at it," Joe Blades remarked, and headed toward the cave-in.

"Joe! Come back here!" Logan called, struggling to his feet as the old man reluctantly halted. "I'll try again."

Jeff Logan! Betty snapped, "can't you be anything but a stubborn fool?"

"I'll go," Dr. Carney announced. "I'll go."

"No! No!" Betty protested. "You're not a miner. You can't hope to do any good."

"I'll go," Dr. Carney repeated, headed back toward the tumbled wall of jagged rock.

Betty Knox stared after him, knowing he didn't want to go, why he forced himself on. Turning, she saw Jeff Logan sway dizzily. Fighting back the tears, she stared alternately at him and at the hole where the young physician had disappeared. "You'll be responsible for that man's death, Jeff Logan," Betty whispered.

There was a rumble of grinding rocks. Jeff Logan started fiercely toward the jumbled mass that blocked the drift. Betty grabbed him. "Jeff! You mustn't! You're not strong enough!"

The young mine owner shook her off, strode on, crawled into the death tunnel.

Agonizing minutes passed while the two men who had meant most in Betty's life were gone. Jeff flooded her when Jeff Logan, crawling out first, dragged the young physician into the dim mine light—and safety. "Don't! Don't! Don't!" he said. "Black Jed Frame came running toward them from the No. 3 drift. 'The fellers have put a drill hole through to the men that's trapped,' he panted. 'They're all right, but needin' air. Jake's blowin' 'em out through the hole. They can hold out till we cut through to 'em.'"

"Thank God!" Jeff Logan exclaimed.

Betty Knox glanced at Dr. Carney, standing now, then turned with brimming eyes to face her former fiancé. "Jeff," she began, "I—I want—"

"I don't want your thanks," Jeff Logan broke in.

"I don't want to thank you," Betty declared with a stamp of her foot. Then, with quivering lips, she added: "I—I want my ring back, Jeff."

No Gasoline Worries

Chatham, Ontario, Woman Drives Electric Car Built In 1919

Although gasoline and tire rationing throughout the war years have affected all motorists to some degree, there is one woman in Ontario to whom these restrictions haven't meant a thing as far as her own motoring is concerned. She is Mrs. Robert Gray, 141 William St. S., Chatham, owner and driver of the only electric car in operation in the province. Mrs. Gray, who is over 80 years of age, is the wife of the former Gray Dort motor car manufacturer.

Mrs. Gray requires no gasoline ration book and, while other motorists have had to curtail their driving or lay up their cars for the duration, Mrs. Gray continues to drive at will about the city and country, although she hasn't taken any long motor trips in some time.

Although it was manufactured in 1919 the car handles easier and is more economical to operate than any car today. Power is supplied by 42 batteries, each of two volts, and weighing a total of 1,400 pounds.

Prisoners In Japan

Arrangements Are Attempted For Regular Service Of Mail And Supplies

Prime Minister King told the House of Commons that he hoped arrangements could be made for a regular service of mail and relief supplies to Canadian prisoners of war and Canadian nationals interned in Japanese territories.

The arrangements contemplated called for delivery through Vladivostok or some other Soviet port. All supplies delivered would be pooled and would be available to other Allied prisoners and nationals as well as to Canadians.

For more than two years Mr. King said, despite repeated disappointments and refusals by the Japanese Government to accept various proposals the Canadian Government had persisted in efforts to arrange such a service using both the agencies of the International Red Cross and the Swiss Government.

Recently stores had been sent to Vladivostok and some 15,000 tons were stored there. Japan had offered to send a ship to a Soviet port to pick up supplies. The Soviet Government was prepared to permit the loading of supplies at a Soviet port. The reply of the Japanese to the Soviet offer was being awaited.

SMILE AWHILE

Landlord Are you a chess player?

Prospective Tenant—Yes. Why do you ask?

Landlord I prefer to rent to them. They so seldom move.

"My old man's nerves are that bad," Mrs. Robinson said to the chemist, "he's afraid to ask for a raise. Would it do any good to give him a dose of them aspirin tablets?"

A mother who had received a bill from her son in college was complaining about his expenses. "Look," he remarked, "it's the language that cost the most—Scottish, fifty dollars."

First Doctor—I had an unusual case today.

Second Doctor—What was it?

First Doctor—I attended a grass widow with hay fever.

Motorist—Have you anything in the shape of automobile tires?

Storekeeper—Yes, indeed. Life preservers, invalid cushions, funeral wreaths and doughnuts.

Officer in charge of rifle range—Don't you know any better than to point an empty gun at me?

Raw Recruit—But it isn't empty, sir; it's loaded.

Wife—Every time you see a pretty girl, you forget you're married.

Husband—You're wrong, my dear. Nothing brings home the fact with so much force.

A junk shop near a railroad crossing in Denver carries a sign with this hint to motorists: "Go ahead; take a chance. We'll buy the car."

Mother—Maud, were you a good little girl at church today?

Maud—Yes, mother. A man offered me a big plate of money, and I said, "No, thank you."

Mistress—I've asked Mr. and Mrs. Smith to dinner at seven, Jenny, but I think we'll give them a quarter of an hour's grace.

Maid—Well, ma'am, Im religious myself, but I think you are overdoing it.

Father—You ought to be ashamed of yourself, not knowing what you learned at school today. Willie Brown always knows.

Bobby—Yes, but he hasn't so far to go home.

"You hit the plaintiff with a chunk of coal, and your conduct presents not one extenuating circumstance."

"Beg pardon, sah; jes' one, sah. It was soft coal, sah."

Stern Parent—Now, Willie, I'd like to go through a whole day without once scolding or punishing you.

Willie—Well, mummy, you have my consent.

Mr. Semi-Detach—For goodness sake, Ethel, stop making that alarm clock go off! What's the idea, anyway?

Mrs. Semi-Detach—I only want to make the neighbors think we have a telephone.

Mobile Field Hospital

R.C.A.F. Nursing Sisters From Canada Are On Duty

Designed to provide hospital service to advanced fighter airfields when D-day broke, the R.C.A.F. mobile field hospital unit has handled more than 100 front line casualties since "D-day plus one" on the shores of Normandy, Wing Commander J. M. "Mickey" Growse, London, Ont., is commanding officer of the unit.

"The first night we were there," said Growse, "they blasted us continuously. I spent most of the night with an orderly running here and there, treating as many as we could. Our surgeon, Squadron Leader 'Chick' Church, (Perth, Ont.), had to operate during it all, too."

First Canadian servicemen to reach the beachhead were two R.C.A.F. nursing sisters, Flight Officers "Molly" Mulholland, Georgetown, Ont., and "Pit" Pitkethley, Ottawa, Ont. Tin hats, bandages and flying boots guaranteed protection for the nomad nurses against any tricks the weatherman might play on them and left them free to concentrate on treatment problems in their tented hospital.

Months of careful preparation went into development of the mobile unit. From the start, it was planned that everything would be under canvas. Staff quarters, patient's wards, and even the operating theatre—composed of several tents joined together—can be packed and moved in a hurry.

During its training period in England, the mobile hospital unit—like other units of the 2nd Tactical Air Force, to which it belongs—changed locations frequently. It was the soundest way of developing its mobility. Loading tents and all other equipment on their own mechanical transports, mobile unit members moved in convoy by day and night over the English countryside, stopping to pitch tents and carry out their full routine of duties.

When D-day came, all that training paid off handsomely. Campaign conditions were normal, though German shells and bombs added an unfamiliar note. Appendectomies have been successfully carried out under battle conditions and patients requiring further treatment are quickly flown in giant Dakota and Harrow bombers, converted for the task to base hospitals in Britain.

Friendly Reception

American Flyer Who Bailed Out Over Occupied Belgium

According to the New York Belgian Information Centre, the following is an eyewitness account from underground sources in occupied Belgium of the bailing-out of an American flyer during the course of a raid on Haren, near Brussels, in May.

"The American parachutist was coming down so fast we had to run, thinking that he might fall on us. He finally landed on a roof in the Avenue Rogier in Brussels. I cannot describe the enthusiasm of the Belgians. German soldiers who entered the building to arrest the American were booed by the crowd."

"From the roof the American saluted the crowd and finally came down to be arrested by the Germans. When they took him away in a car, the Belgians bombarded the car with bouquets of lilies of the valley, which everyone traditionally carries in Belgium during May."

MACDONALD'S BRIER Canada's Standard Smoke

Safety First

There Are Too Many Accidents On Canadian Farms

The cold truth is that the ratio of preventable accidents in agriculture is higher than in any other industry. Many hundreds of farmers, members of their families and workers on farms are killed and thousands injured every year in Canada as the result of accidents, most of which could have been prevented.

With the farm labour shortage just now so acute and when all out production of food is so essential to the war effort, the accident toll is particularly serious.

A survey has disclosed that machinery is the chief source of farm work accidents; that live stock runs a close second and that falls are in third place. The wise farmer is he who learning the causes of accidents on his farm takes steps to eliminate such causes and all possible hazards. For example, the fact that loose clothing causes one-third of all farm accidents involving machinery should make anyone avoid that particular hazard like the plague.

And the ever-present threat of fire, which annually destroys millions of dollars worth of rural property, ought to be enough for a farmer to justify devoting at least a part of one morning per month to looking round the farm for fire hazards, and accident hazards, too.

Prevention of accidents means avoiding making an acute farm labour shortage more acute and also means an even bigger contribution to food production.

Safety First is a good slogan for any farm.

Chance Remark Convinced Hollywood Actor He Should Start Reducing

Fat persons give various reasons for dieting, but it is doubtful that any one ever had a more valid one than Laird Cregar. Hollywood film actor, seen recently in "The Lodger," He has reduced from 350 pounds to 250, and this was the cause of it. He was attending a crowded social event one afternoon when he overheard a woman near him say to another: "I'll meet you by Laird Cregar in ten minutes." That settled the matter then and there.

Orangeade garnished with mint, a platter of cookies mean refreshment aplenty. The recipe for these new-fashioned "Marguerites" appears on this same page.

MARGUERITES

2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped nut meats
1/2 cup All-Bran

Beat eggs slightly, add remaining ingredients in the order given. Fill small buttered pans 2/3 full of mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Cool slightly before removing from pan. Dust with powdered sugar. Yield: 24 dozen (2 inches in diameter).

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A FAITHFUL WORKER PASSES

Coleman this week mourns the death of a once active and esteemed citizen in the person of Howard Cormack McBurney. Here was a man who for thirty-one years labored so that Coleman might build and prosper. He gave his time and money in order that community activities might grow and be of benefit to all. In his business he made room for a number of young people and gave them a chance to improve their lot in life.

It is men like McBurney that makes a town grow and become worth while. They are the men who can take criticism and still plunge ahead toward their ultimate goal. Despite the fact that he had left Coleman for a city, it did not end his interest in his "home town." Coleman will miss him.

SPORTS DAY WORTH WHILE

During the week we were approached by a citizen who remarked that they had heard the Coleman sports didn't amount to much. We took exception to the remark and for this reason: the local sports on July 1 meant a day of real fun for a few hundred kiddies. Unable to jump into the family bus like a number of other families the local sports gave them a splendid outlet for their surplus energy and in addition gave them a few additional cents in their pockets, a few more bottles of pop and hot dogs in their "tummies" and a thrill of competing in front of the public. It is an annual event which these youngsters look forward to, and rightfully they should, as it is sponsored for their benefit.

Those persons having cars are free to patronize other centres, but to have some come back and say "they heard" the local sports did not amount to much, misses the mark by a wide margin. To the few hundred youngsters unable to leave town they mean a great deal.

POLITICAL FRONT QUIET

Nothing of importance has happened during the past week among political parties in this constituency. The Labor party is having a nominating convention in Blair-more this Sunday night, at which time Enoch Williams, mayor of Blairmore and secretary of the miners' union in that town, might be nominated for the Labor ticket.

As far as the Independent party is concerned, nothing at all has been done. Enquiry from those citizens who were active in the campaign last election on behalf of Chris. Tompkins, Independent candidate, reveals that nothing has been started. Percy Page, spokesman for the Independents in the province, stated this week that 50 candidates would be in the race for election honors.

The CCF party still remains silent, as does the Social Credit party, although the latter party has announced its nomination convention date as July 29.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE REQUIRED

More and more enquiries have been received in recent weeks regarding the reception to be given returning men from the armed services. The matter has been discussed with local organizations and it appears that not a great deal of thought had been given the matter by them.

However, a movement is now afoot to form a reception committee. It would appear that the Legion is the logical body to take the lead in this matter. Any help required should be given heed to by the town council and other civic bodies.

The question of what tribute should be paid to the men will have to be discussed at some length by interested organizations.

HOLIDAY SEASON HERE

Next week the schools will be closing and the holiday season will be on in earnest. Many will be going farther afield this year due to the fact that the wage-earner will be enjoying his first holiday with pay. Vancouver is still the popular holiday resort with many, despite the fact that accommodation is hard to find. Calgary's Stampede is sure to attract many from town. In a few short weeks the town will take on its annual sleepy mood, activities will be at a standstill until the cooler weather comes and school days are here once again.

WHILE MEN ARE DYING

On a day when Canadian soldiers were dying in the orchards of Normandy, members of the House of Commons interrupted a debate on aviation to argue over the correct time. Practically a full column of Hansard was taken up with discussion that went like this:

The CHAIRMAN: I desire to inform the hon. member that he has spoken for 40 minutes.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): I did not think I had, but if you say so I will sit down.

The CHAIRMAN: I kept the time and so did the assistant clerk.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): I kept the time also and I do not think you are right.

The CHAIRMAN: I kept the time, and I always have it checked by the assistant clerk.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): I kept the time.

The CHAIRMAN: Surely the chair has the right to say when a member has spoken 40 minutes. It is not a duty I exactly relish, but I am expected to perform it.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): I think a member has some rights.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver Centre): I want to protest most strongly and emphatically against the reflection made by the hon. member for York-Sunbury against the chair.

Mr. HANSON (York-Sunbury): I do not intend to take a lecture from you or anybody else.

Mr. MACKENZIE (Vancouver Centre): I am rising to a point of order.

One might expect a group of kindergarten youngsters to carry on this sort of dispute, but for grown-up men in the House of Commons and at a time like this, it is no less than shocking.—Financial Post.

James W. Gresham, former police magistrate, now retired and residing at the Pacific coast, arrived in town over the week end to relieve Magistrate Antrobus, who is on holiday for three weeks.

C.P.R. Gun Plant in Foothills Aids Atlantic Convoys

Three thousand, four hundred and thirty-eight feet above sea level and 2,600 rail miles from the Atlantic seaboard, the Canadian Pacific Railway's Ogden Shops in Calgary provides an outstanding example of the switch-over of the entire C.P.R. system from peace to war. Naval guns made there, at one of the approaches to the Rocky Mountains, have played, and are playing, their part on those other celebrated approaches—the Atlantic approaches to the Old Country—over which supplies for the fighting fronts have to pass.

work finishing gun barrels in the great foothills work centre is a sample of the type of ordnance turned out at Ogden Shops, which now is preparing to go into production on its fifth type of naval gun mount. British, Canadian and American sea services all have shared in the ordnance turned out to fight against Hitler's underwater killers.

Ogden Shops' floor space of 235,000 square feet, full overhead crane service and geographical location first convinced the Department of Munitions and Supply and its advisers that the Calgary shop was an ideal place to turn out the naval guns and a request was made for its use late in the Fall of 1940. To make way for the navy work the shops had first to be cleared of the major locomotive and mechanical repairs it normally handled for the C.P.R. from British Columbia, Alberta and part of Saskatchewan, with this repair schedule of vital importance in itself to war freight and passenger movements. Heavy repairs now go to Winnipeg and in some cases as far as Angus Shops in Montreal and light repairs to smaller local repair shops.

CHINA'S GREAT STRUGGLE ENLISTS WORLD SYMPATHY

Today China enters upon her eighth year of courageous and unrelenting resistance to the Japanese aggressor. Her continuous battle creates a record without precedent in the annals of warfare; a record not only of the longest war for the past one hundred years, but an undying example of a weak nation standing against a strong foe.

To commemorate the occasion, the Chinese National Salvation League, with Canadian headquarters at Vancouver, will compile a booklet to be titled "Western Canada's Press Opinion of the Seventh Anniversary of China's War with Japan." During these seven years the Chinese people have gone through untold sufferings and privations, and her soldiers have shown splendid valor and brave fighting under very adverse circumstances. In these seven years, China made a contribution to the cause of decency and justice beyond computation. She is the main pillar of resistance to Axis aggression in Asia, and is of inestimable value to the cause of the United Nations. China believes that she has done well as a vanguard of freedom and civilization, and she has been repeatedly pledged herself to continue the struggle until victory is won.

MILLION DOLLAR HOUSING PLAN

The Alberta Social Credit government is prepared to make available $1,000,000 for a new provincial housing scheme, and to call a special session of the legislature, if necessary, to implement the programme this year, according to Attorney-General Lucien Maynard, who said it is evident that if we are going to have an adequate housing programme for the province, provision will have to be made for the programme by the people themselves.

After municipal organizations have given indication that they are prepared to enter a housing programme, and after necessary details have been worked out by a committee of municipal men and government officials, the government will likely call a special session to do the necessary.

In addition to purchasing shares in the associations, it is proposed that the government and municipal corporations should purchase debentures carrying interest of 3½ per cent, all interest payments guaranteed by the government. Public associations and corporations will be invited to subscribe for shares and purchase debentures with a minimum dividend of 5 per cent.

Tall Story From Texas

There's an old story in Texas about how the state was populated back in the early days when the people of the East were turning their faces and their feet westward.

The story is that when these Eastern folk reached a certain major river crossing on the Mississippi, they found a road with many forks, and a number of signs pointing into these various roads. One said "to Kansas"; another "to Oklahoma"; another to Arkansas, and so on. There were many of them. And one said "To Texas."

And says the story, the folks that could read all went to Texas. —Santa Fe Magazine.

ONE MAN'S INCOME IS ANOTHER MAN'S OUTGO...

If rising prices and costs were allowed to keep pushing each other up, inflation would be unavoidable. That's what inflation is—a panic rise in prices—with money losing its value and confusion everywhere. To prevent inflation, a ceiling has been set on prices and profits,—wages and salaries have been controlled.

If one person demands higher prices—another higher profits—another a higher wage or salary—soon everybody would be making the same demands—demands on everyone else.

Then costs of production could not be controlled.

The ceiling could no longer be held.

Living costs would go up—

Income OUTGO and Income begin their frantic rise.

Women In The Service

IT IS WELL KNOWN that the women of Canada have been willing and eager to undertake war service. Many have joined the women's divisions of the armed forces, while others have replaced men of military age in industries and in the business world. There are also thousands of volunteer workers who serve in many capacities and whose help is invaluable in these times. In supporting the war effort in this manner, Canadian women have demonstrated, as have the women of the other Allied nations, that they desire to share as fully as possible in the winning of the war. This has entailed hardship and sacrifice and in some cases considerable danger, but these have been met with admirable spirit, and it has been shown that without doubt women are capable of giving valuable service to their country when it is needed.

Have Played An Important Part

The part of women in the war as a whole has been an important one. From Russia there have come many stories of the heroism of women of that country who have taken part in combat and showed outstanding valour. The underground movements of many of the Occupied countries have in some cases, been made up largely of women, since few men have been left in some of these areas. Women of the underground organizations have participated in all forms of resistance, even in military operations. Many have been captured and punished by the Germans, but those who were left carried on, never slackening their efforts. When the war is won, to them will go honor and credit for having given sustained help to the Allied cause in the face of extreme danger and hardship.

Work Behind Front Line

The women of Britain have likewise made a valuable contribution to the Allied war effort. At the beginning of the war, the women's branches of the armed services were organized mainly for domestic and clerical duties, but they now undertake a great variety of work "behind the front line" which was formerly done by men. This has helped in no small measure in building up the great forces now operating in Europe. Women's divisions of the Canadian armed forces have likewise worked for months in preparation for the Allied landings in Europe. The British Ministry of Information recently issued an interesting account of the services rendered by women in uniform and it concluded with the following statement: "Without them neither the British nor Allied forces based in Britain would ever be able to go into battle. When Europe is liberated and the victory over Germany is won, it will be due no less to the girls who gave up their homes and careers for the hard working life of the camp, than to the fighting men of all nations."

Sleeping Sickness

Horses Should Be Shielded From Encephalomyelitis

The time is now approaching when encephalomyelitis—the sleeping sickness of horses—usually occurs. So far, scientists have not found an effective drug remedy but experience has shown that early vaccination by a qualified veterinarian is the best preventive. The protection of horses against biting insects is also a great help. However, the Veterinary Director General of Canada points out, that while it is not recommended that all horses should be vaccinated, farmers should be prepared to act promptly if the disease makes its appearance in their district or in any neighboring territory. In districts where the disease appeared last year, the owners of valuable pure-bred animals would be well advised to have them vaccinated as a precautionary measure. Sleeping sickness in horses may infect man with a similar type of disease.

WAS QUITE RIGHT

Firemen digging for victims of a flying bomb in the south of England heard a hoarse voice crying from beneath a heap of rubble: "Blimey what a blooming war." The exclamation was repeated again and again and firemen thought the victim had become unbalanced because of shock. After digging for a half-hour, the firemen cleared away broken floor-boards and saw in a cavity—a parrot. The bird was taken away, still screaming "Blimey, what a blooming war!"

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—When I apply for my baby's ration book, will I be able to get canning sugar coupons also?

A—Yes, when you make application and secure the baby's book you will be given canning sugar coupons at the same time.

Q—My grocer often tears out expired coupons from my ration book. He says they are no good to me. Is he right?

A—You should tear out and destroy any expired coupons yourself. It is true they are of no use to you but the retailer might use them to obtain goods to which he is not entitled.

Q—May I exchange "F" coupons for preserves coupons? Are they valid now?

A—The first "F" canning sugar coupons became valid May 25. They may be exchanged for preserves coupons if you do not want to purchase canning sugar. Take them to your nearest local ration board and they will make the exchange.

Q—Do I have to surrender coupons for canned grapefruit?

A—Yes, a "D" preserves coupon will buy 20 fluid ounces of canned grapefruit. However, no coupons need be surrendered by housewives purchasing grapefruit juice. It isn't rationed.

Q—My son has just been discharged from the armed services. Where do I obtain his ration book? A—Discharged servicemen may obtain No. 4 ration books by presenting their discharge papers at any local ration board. Canning sugar coupons will also be supplied at the time application is made for the No. 4 book.

A Veteran's Idea

Canadian Soldiers In Italy Get Cigarettes The Easy Way

Canadian soldiers chasing Germans through the hills of Italy may not know it but they owe a vote of thanks to Walter Callow of Parrissboro, N.S., blind and paralyzed veteran of the First Great War. For it was largely through his work that they are getting their cigarettes three months earlier.

Two years ago Callow got the idea of setting up a cigarette depot overseas. Instead of sending cigarettes from Canada, friends would air mail a card and the soldier could take it to a tobacco bank and draw from a large stock, thus eliminating weeks of waiting and danger of loss.

The task of establishing a depot reached Defence Minister Ralston and he took it along with him on his visit to Italian battle zones. The bank of cigarettes in Italy and the price of those available convinced him that Callow's plan was sound. And the plan, slightly altered, has gone into effect.

Variety Of Names

Many Unusual Ones Are On Canadian National Railways' Payroll

"Early and Last", "Beck and Call", "First and Last", "Begin and End" and a "Deadman" who is alive and working, are some of the more than 100,000 names on the Canadian National Railways payroll.

Research shows that the use of surnames dates back to some time between the years 1000 and 1250, originating through association with occupation, craft descent, locality, personal descriptions, or nicknames. For instance, Smith is a derivative of blacksmith, Johnson—John's son, Atwell—at the well, and Longfellow—a long fellow. There is no restriction placed on the Christian names that may be used in the British Empire and the United States, but in France and Germany only those contained in a list issued by the state are allowed. Spain has her own novel way, surnames being combined in different ways for the mother, father and children.

More than 2,400,000 pay cheques are issued annually to cover 100,000 Canadian National employees. To complicate matters there are 3,500 Smiths, of which 267 are William Smiths, 238 John Smiths, and 152 James Smiths. There are 2,000 Browns many with the same initial, as also applies to the Joneses, Whites and Thompsons.

Other names of Canadian National employees are Longstaff and Kane, Oats and Patton, Big and Little, and, in a group associated with religion, Abbey, Abbott, Angel, Bishop, Brother, Canon, Chapel, Church, Deacon, Dean, Elder, Grace, Kirk, Monk Noel, Nunn, Parsonage, Pope, Priest, Parrish and Temple. Automobile trade names are Austin, Ford, Dodge, Chrysler, Hudson, Maxwell, Packard and Willys. Five of the first six months of the year are represented in the list of names. January, March, April, May and June while there is only August in the last half of the year.

Aided The Invasion

British Housewives Gave Assistance In Packing Materials Needed

A great number of British housewives gave active assistance in preparing the Allied armies for the invasion.

They are grandmothers, young girls, old age pensioners, who worked for weeks packing invasion stores. More than 375,000 articles were packed and ready to be shipped wherever any unit of the army needed spare parts for its equipment.

These women, working in barns, fire halls, schools or any building that could accommodate them had the job of coating each spare with preservative and packing it in a carefully labelled cardboard box.

Manufacturers who made the parts did not have the spare labor to pack the articles as carefully as experience in Italy and Sicily taught they must be packed.

Making Them Gay

Britain's Restaurants Being Re-decorated And Made To Look Attractive

Soon after the Ministry of Food started its British restaurants—there are now 3,000 in Britain—it was realized that food eaten in ugly surroundings was a poor substitute for meals at home. Therefore, under the guidance of an art adviser, Clive Gardiner, a scheme was started to make the restaurants look more attractive. Now about 150 of them have been decorated with mural paintings in gay colors of scenes from all over the world, writes A. J. Cummings from London to the Hamilton Spectator. The walls of the British restaurant in Bradford, Yorkshire, for instance, are covered with scenes from J. B. Priestley's novel, "The Good Companions". Mr. Priestley and his hero, Joss Oakroyd, are both Yorkshiremen. A restaurant for children in Beckenham, Kent has scenes from Kenneth Grahame's famous book, "Wind in the Willows", while another has some gay scenes from "Cinderella". The mural paintings in the British restaurants have given so much pleasure to those who take their daily meals there that the scheme has now been extended to factory canteens.

Too Many Horses

Unusual Situation Confronts Farmers In Western Canada

The surplus horse problem in Western Canada has reached such proportions that vigorous action will be required to meet it. Following the example of Saskatchewan, a co-operative marketing organization has been set up in Southern Alberta to see what can be done about the rapidly increasing horse surplus in this province. Those promoting the organization deserve solid backing from the Government and farmers generally.

Some authorities estimate that Western Canada now has 500,000 horses above the number required for farm work and other enterprises using horses. Harassed by labor shortages, many farmers have simply turned out their horses to forage for themselves. They are now devouring grass in the range country that could support many thousands of cattle and sheep.—Edmonton Journal.

Not A French Word

Czech Novelist Originated "Robot" In One Of His Plays

The robot raids on Britain bring into more common use a word often mispronounced under the impression that it is French. The "r" is not silent. The pronunciation given by the Oxford English dictionary closely approximates "rowboat", but American dictionaries make the last "o" short, to rhyme with "hot". The word is derived from the Czech "robota", meaning statute labor and "robotnik", meaning a serf. The Czech dramatist and novelist Karel Capek originated it in 1920 in his play R. U. R. (Rossum's Universal Robots), a satirization of the machine age which was translated into English in 1923.—Toronto Star.

Good Gardening Takes More Than Fancy Equipment

Last year there were some wartime gardeners who had had luck with their crops. Many of these started with a burst of enthusiasm, but in their determined effort to produce a garden better than their neighbours, they bought a lot of equipment without the knowledge of how to use it. This can happen to anyone keen about a job. Throughout the season this year, a little more thought, discussion and study is going to put right the mistakes of last year.

Garden experts say that last year, tons of potential food for Canadian families was lost because Mr. and Mrs. Wartime Gardener were green at the job. This year Mr. and Mrs. W.G. are going to produce that food or, know the reason why!

THRESHING OUTFITS WILL BE PERMITTED TO CROSS BORDER TO TAKE OFF GRAIN CROP

OTTAWA.—Labor Minister Mitchell announced that reciprocal arrangements have been made between Canada and the United States permitting grain threshing outfits of each country to cross the border free and to work in the other country.

Under the arrangements certain border crossing formalities will be temporarily suspended from July 7 to permit the exchange of threshing equipment and crews between Canada's prairie provinces and adjacent western states of the United States.

Mr. Mitchell said this season's arrangements provide that Canadian threshing outfits may remain in the United States until Sept. 15, U.S. machines and crews may enter Canada when their services are required but may not remain longer than Dec. 31.

The announcement said similar arrangements, in effect during the last two years, will continue for the duration, and that the agreement takes account of the fact that the grain harvesting in the U.S. is as a rule earlier than in Canada. Canadian crews will be back in Canada for harvesting and American crews also will be entering Canada when they are needed.

Mr. Mitchell said the negotiations had involved the co-operation of the immigration branch and the federal and provincial departments of agriculture.

WINNIPEG.—Men of the services, surplus eastern harvesters and high school students will be called to aid western farmers during the harvest season, Arthur MacNamara, director of national selective service, said here in an interview.

"With five out of every eight persons over the age of 14 engaged in essential war services, the pool of labor available is restricted," he said.

"By making the best use of mobile labor, we hope to be able to take off the crop without difficulty."

Men in the armed forces will be made available insofar as the demands of war permit, while workers will be brought from the east after harvest is finished there.

R.C.A.F. RECRUITING

OTTAWA.—The R.C.A.F. has suspended recruiting until Oct. 1, it was reliably learned here. It was understood Air Minister Power would make a statement in the commons. It was also understood the chief reason for the halt in recruiting was the fact casualties have been much under the estimates of operational commanders.

CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD SAYS WHEAT CARRYOVER AT JULY 31 WILL BE GREATLY REDUCED

OTTAWA.—C. B. Davidson, executive assistant of the Canadian wheat board, said it was estimated that Canada's wheat carryover at July 31, 1944, the end of the 1943-44 crop year, would be between 330,000,000 and 350,000,000 bushels.

Testifying before the commons committee on agriculture and colonization, Mr. Davidson said that at last Aug. 1 the carryover totalled 524,000,000 bushels. When the 1943-44 crop of 294,000,000 bushels was added to the carryover, stocks totalled 818,000,000 bushels. It was expected that these stocks would be reduced to between 330,000,000 and 350,000,000 bushels before the end of the crop year.

If the reduction in stocks had been coupled with a poor crop this year, "I can't imagine any greater tragedy that could have happened," said Mr. Davidson before the committee completed study of the wheat board's report for the crop years 1942-43.

Earlier, R. C. Findlay, comptroller of the board, said payment on participation certificates for the 1941 and 1942 crops would be made in combined cheques. Payments for 1940 were nearing completion.

STARTED LONG AGO

Plans For Invasion Of Europe Were Studied In 1940

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force.—Plans for an invasion of France were being studied as early as 1940, when the Germans still were plotting to overrun Britain, it was disclosed, and at one time British leaders decided that a single division would suffice to capture the Cherbourg peninsula.

Only a short time after the Dunkirk deliverance in June, 1940, Prime Minister Churchill was attending secret conferences with the then head of combined operations, Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, said a source which must not be identified.

In July, 1942, the United States army chief of staff, General Marshall, visited London secretly, and it finally was decided to attack North Africa first. In that connection, it was said the rumor that the choice lay between a British and an American "second-front" plan was untrue. Both plans were laid by mixed teams of American and British officers. The Canadian-led Dieppe raid on August, 1942, showed the planners that a big continental landing would be a dubious success without heavy air and sea bombardment in advance. The final plan for the invasion of France was begun during the Sicilian campaign last summer.

STRENUOUS TRIP

Woman Drives Fully Loaded Truck Over Alaska Highway

EDMONTON.—Mrs. Rusty Bowring, mail orderly at Fort Richardson, Alaska, has become the first woman to drive the length of the Alaska highway, round trip, driving a fully-loaded truck.

Mrs. Down made the 3,160-mile truck trip, averaging about 200 miles a day. From the time she left Fairbanks and returned from Dawson Creek, southern end of the highway, she had four flat tires, drove through a forest fire and lost 15 pounds from "sheer nervous strain."

WILL BE FAR-REACHING

BISBANE.—Prime Minister Curtin returned to Australia after a three-months visit to Britain, Canada and the United States and said the decision reached at conferences he held with Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt "would affect the life of the world not only immediately in the conduct of the war but in the years to come."

NEW AIR FORCE

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA.—General MacArthur announced creation of a new air arm to be known as the Far Eastern Air Force, with headquarters in Australia. The new force will be headed by Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of Allied air forces in this theatre since 1942.

Mr. Davidson said it was estimated Canada's commercial stocks of wheat, oats, barley, rye and flax would be reduced by about 682,000,000 before the end of the crop year. This compared with a reduction of 308,000,000 in 1939-40; 336,000,000 in 1940-41; 359,000,000 in 1941-42, and 438,000,000 in 1942-43.

Approximately 681,000,000 bushels of wheat, oats and barley would have been used as feed and seed in Canada alone before the end of the crop year.

Mr. Davidson said the total reduction of all grain stocks, including exports, during the year would amount to about 1,350,000,000 bushels. Present stocks of oats totalled 26,000,000 bushels, while barley stocks amounted to 24,000,000.

Mr. Davidson said the amount of grain used as feed during the present crop year would break all records. Farmers in western Canada alone would use an estimated 480,000,000 bushels of wheat, oats and barley.

Statement on the stocks of grain followed completion of a review of the financial aspects in the board's report.

HARD TO OBTAIN

Shortage Of Radio Parts, Particularly Tubes, Has Become Acute

CALGARY.—Thousands of private radio receiving sets are being put out of commission in the west because of the difficulty in obtaining replacement parts, particularly tubes, E. N. Dack, priorities officer, department of munitions and supply, Winnipeg, stated in Calgary.

Mr. Dack said he had been informed that 6,000 radio sets in both Saskatchewan and Manitoba were not being operated because of the acute tube shortage.

There was no prospect of an improvement in the situation he said, because of heavy demands for radio tubes for essential use by the armed forces.

SIGNIFICANT SUCCESSES WON BY ALLIED TROOPS SINCE THE OPENING OF WESTERN FRONT

HEADQUARTERS, 21st Army Group.—The opening of the second front has brought the Allied land effort in the west to totals nearing that of the Russians and today, 40 per cent. of the available German divisions are engaged in France, Italy and various other fronts.

While total figures are not yet available, a senior British staff officer reported that three out of every five German divisions of all sorts are on the Russian front, while others have been required elsewhere.

"The percentage of Panzer divisions in the west is even higher," he stated.

German army losses in three weeks of Normandy fighting were estimated at 70,000 killed, wounded, captured and trapped in the isolated areas of the Cherbourg peninsula.

Prisoners are men under 21 or over 28 years of age. Those in between appear to have been written off so far as German manpower is concerned.

"There is a tremendous gap in the age group," said one British officer. Older men who had been left for years to man coastal defences appear to have been browned off. Tired of the struggle, the younger men, those under 21, had not known battle fire.

Two significant successes stand out in the three weeks of fighting in Normandy.

First of all, the Allied forces have not only made successful landings under stubborn opposition on the most hazardous coast imaginable, but they have held their beachhead throughout and increased the area until a solid width substantially exceeds 100 miles, and runs practically

Fast Moving Allies Too Much For The Enemy

HEADQUARTERS 21st ARMY GROUP.—The horse, symbol of battle down through the ages, and transport power on which the German infantry has largely depended in France, may easily help the Nazis lose the land they won four years ago, by the skillful use of gasoline on the part of the Allies.

Three-quarters of the transport in German infantry formations is provided by horses. In other branches they went all out for mechanization and their high-powered panzer divisions tore sweeping across continental Europe. They prided themselves on engineering and mechanical development in the air, on the land and on the sea. But they kept their infantry using horses and in mind of that the infantryman probably plodded along at about a pace of five miles per hour.

When the battle of Cherbourg started the American troops moved swiftly across the peninsula. They caught the Germans bending, and had that important area less than three weeks after the beach landings.

The Germans had used forced labor, tens of thousands of Europeans, to build their massive steel and concrete channel fortifications. But they had retained horses to haul supplies for their infantry.

The other day some of our fighter bombers on a mission to Normandy caught about 1,000 infantrymen in the open along with their transports. "These troops were bombed to bits," one of Gen. Montgomery's staff reported.

"The Germans lost 50 per cent. of their motor transports and their horse-drawn transport was entirely smashed." The Germans are also reported using horse-drawn guns.

The Allies did not take one horse to France. They just kept pushing across every piece of mechanical transport and every gallon of fuel they could obtain.

Everybody Welcome

"I guess it's up to me!"

Now that I can go I'm not going to stick around and let the other fellows do it.

Bill and Jack went over last week, and Fred's been over there a year. Now it's my chance:

It's going to take months of training before I can get fighting-fit, so I'd better get moving today:

Yes sir! I'm going now, to tell Dad and Mom that I'm on my way to sign up:
